Things you learn from watching the Star Wars movie crawl:
Civil war going on, rebels have won 1st victory against Galactic Empire, Rebel spies stole plans about the Death Star, Rebel leader Princess Leia is on the run with the plans, etc.
England's colonization of North America began with the first permanent English settlement at Jamestown. To encourage colonization, England offered charters in the New World to prospective settlers and various joint stock companies were set up to help finance the high price of setting up a colony. As the mother country, England pursued colonization in an attempt to enrich the country as part of the economic theory of mercantilism. Although both the New England and Chesapeake were settled by England, the motives for colonization, the characteristics of the colonists, and the geography of the region contributed to the regions evolving into two distinct societies. However, in spite of both colonies developing into two distinct societies, both would share similarities such as the development of English political institutions and administration under the British mercantile system.
